EASTERN NEWS.

[BY TELEGRAPH TO THE OREGONIAN]

The Louisiana Flood.

NEW ORLEANS, April 28.—The Captain of the steamer Iberia reports that families are abandoning their plantations and moving to the highlands. Three thousand hogsheads of sugar was anticipated only seed is hoped for now. The water is over the Morgan railroad for twenty-five miles. Three men were drowned in attempting to cross Red river, Sunday.

MONROE, La., April 28.—The river has fallen 1½ inches in twenty-four hours. The steamer Garry reports the water as falling all the way down.

[illegible] for U. S. Troops by Governor Baxter.

LITTLE ROCK, April 28.—Baxter, upon receiving advices from the President that his first requisition for troops to assist in suppressing the insurrection did not arrive, repeated the same to-day.

Death of a Son of Wm. Orton.

NEW YORK, April 28.—President Orton, of the Western Union Telegraph Company, has been recalled from Europe by the death of his son Samuel. At last accounts Mr. Orton's health was unimproved.

WASHINGTON CITY.

Congressional Proceedings.

WASHINGTON, April 28.—The House Committee on [illegible] to-day authorized the following named bill to be reported: A bill repealing the special act of California to elect her Representatives for the Forty-fourth Congress during the present year. The purpose the Congressional election in that State in August, 1873.

BY ATLANTIC CABLE.

The Achinese War Heard From.

LONDON, April 25.—In the battle of the 11th instant eight thousand natives made a general attack on the Dutch positions at Kraton, but were repulsed with great slaughter, after eight hours' fighting. All the Dutch forces, except a garrison of 2,500 now in [illegible], will return to Java to-morrow.

THE VETO OF INFLATION.

RECEPTION OF THE NEWS IN EUROPE.

NEW YORK, April 24.—The Herald's dispatch from London says that only one opinion prevails among the moneyed classes, and that is that the veto will act beneficially to American credit. Any other course would have been [illegible] fatal. Bankers, bullion dealers, brokers, and the large money interest generally [illegible] the measure. Many persons felt [illegible] that the President would show [illegible], otherwise, inflation, it was generally [illegible], would break the principle of redemption. The indefinite postponement of specie payment would have injured all present investments, and would result in the total [illegible] of the further purchase of securities on European account.

NEW YORK, April 24.—A Paris special to the Herald says the veto is extremely well received by [illegible], bankers and merchants. There are no two opinions but that it is the best thing that has been done since the taking [illegible].

NEW YORK, April 24.—A Frankfort special to the [illegible] says that reports have been received from all sides of the excellent impression [illegible] by the veto, and admits its influence in allaying the fear of constant expansion. It is the only rational mode of a return to a sound financial basis. The [illegible] topic among bankers is, will the railways pay their debts or drift into repudiation? [illegible] investors are disgusted.

THE VETO IN WASHINGTON.

NEW YORK, April 23.—Washington dispatches indicate that the veto yesterday created a profound sensation, and was received by the [illegible] Senators with great indignation. Logan, Morton and Ferry of Michigan, seemed [illegible] enraged; Merrimon, who is the author of the bill, seemed sorrowful and disappointed. [illegible] thought that the President had made a great mistake. He said his action would alienate the great States of the West on which the Republican party had so long relied, and would not save the Eastern States, such as Connecticut and New Hampshire, where his veto would be approved. "I am not sure about Pennsylvania," said the veteran politician. "It will be harder work to carry that State than before." Carpenter said this would probably end the struggle in Congress, but that the fight would be transferred to the Congressional districts, and that the people would return to Congress, with largely increased majorities, members in favor of an increase of currency. A member of the House from a Western State, who was in the Senate lobby shortly before adjournment, said that the delegations [illegible] Western States were a unit in favor of a repudiation of the action of the President, and had even thought of calling a caucus to do it. The inflationists all assert that Grant has committed political suicide, and stabbed the party to death. The hard money men hold with equal emphasis that he has covered himself with glory and saved the party.

VANCOUVER ITEMS.

Water in the Columbia begins to rise, although very slowly.

Small salmon were caught in the river opposite the town last night. As soon as the water rises a little more, fishing will be lively.

[illegible] is more active since spring opened, and our streets present a more lively appearance. The prospects of a fine harvest gives [illegible] to farmers, and this moves the wheels of trade.

On Monday last the statue of St. Joseph was raised and placed in the niche prepared for it in the south gable of the Sisters' new building, "H— of Providence." Last autumn a statue brought from San Francisco for this purpose, but as it was a cast of plaster it was declared by an artisan that in an exposed position in one or two years it would crumble to pieces. Said artisan (we think his name is Kelly, and hails from Portland), was then [illegible] to cast a new one from more enduring [illegible]. A mould of plaster was then made from the original model, and a new one [illegible] but being used instead of plaster. The mould, having been made in sections, was taken off without injury, and can be used for casting any number of St. Josephs. Two [illegible] of cement were used, and a quantity of [illegible] brick to absorb a portion of the moisture. The statute is six feet in hight (life size), and weighs about 700 pounds. The original statue will be placed on the altar of St. Joseph in the chapel of the building.

PACIFIC COAST NEWS.

CALIFORNIA.

From San Francisco.

SAN FRANCISCO, April 29.—A fire occured on Clay street near Sansome at 10 o'clock last night in the American tea store, Wolf & Fletcher's market and Eastman's printing house. Damage probably $10,000, mostly covered by insurance.

OREGON.

A Salem man takes 18 papers, 14 weeklies and 4 dailies.

Seventy-seven couples attended the Odd Fellows' ball at Albany.

The flouring mills at Silverton, Marion county, are shipping much flour.

Gov. Ferry paid an official visit to the Territorial asylum at Steilacoom last Tuesday.

Southern Oregon has been stirred to its lowest depths lately with candidates for office.

Cove, in Union county, has a Union Temperance Society just organized, with 52 members.

Work, raising subscriptions, will begin on the bridge across the river at Salem immediately.

The Willamette Woolen Manufacturing Company has sent East for a competent Superintendent.

Two Marion county grangers will send the mohair from 98 Angora goats to the Philadelphia market this summer.

The coaches now arrive at La Grande on steamboat days, loaded to the guards with passengers and hurried freight.

Salemites returned from the Odd Fellows picnic at Albany tired and sleepy, but feeling that they had enjoyed a superb time.

A man fell from the Capitol building at Salem the other day, and the accidental catching on a projecting timber, just saved his neck.

The new paper to be printed at La Grande by J. H. Misener (the name of which has not yet transpired), is to be issued on the 6th of May.

The Champions of the Red Cross at Salem are making inroads on the ranks of intemperance. Four or five persons are initiated each meeting.

A dummy engine is now in use in the work on the State Capitol building. It is employed in hoisting brick and mortar from the ground to the top of the walls.

The Umatilla Indians were more fortunate than most of their white brethren in Eastern Oregon the past winter. They lost but very little stock by the bad weather.

The La Grande Sentinel says: "The news of the nominations made by the Republican Convention at Salem, lately, was coldly received in La Grande, Cagey Baker not being the candidate for Congress was a wet blanket on the party here."

On Puget Sound the prospects for a large yield of grain, vegetables and fruit, are excellent. Should no severe frost cast its untimely breath upon us, the supply of cherries, strawberries, plums and all kinds of fruits and berries will be enormous.

The reporter of the Salem Record publishes a story about the notorious Kansas murderess, Kate Bender, and represents that she has lately been in Salem, Oregon City, Portland, Tacoma and other places. We would not be surprised as the Benders have been found in, almost every part of the habitable globe.

Island City is the high-sounding name of a village haretofore known as Island Mills, situated in the valley on Grand Ronde river, about four miles from La Grande. The spot is without pretensions as a town, having but one store, one blacksmith shop, one school, and one immense flouring mill, owned by Caviness & Sterlin.

The Tacoma Tribune says: "Again we have it reported that an ocean steamer is to be put on the route between Puget Sound and San Francisco. This time it is in a telegram dated April 20th, from that city. It is their stated that the steamer Wm. Tabor will soon come here to run in connection with steamers to Alaska ports."

The accident to Chas. Peter Morris, at Oyster Bay, was mentioned yesterday. It has been found that his skull was fractured. He was taken to Olympia and Drs. Steele and Waughop performed an operation on his skull. There is little hope of his recovery. He is about twenty-three years old, and is a native of Marseilles, France.

The Statesman says: Last Saturday morning as the express train from Albany was nearing Canemah, a cow standing on the track was caught by the cow-catcher and thrown some eight feet into the air. She landed close by the track, and owing to the steep bank, rolled back on to it in front of the engine. The entire train ran over the poor creature, mangling her badly. It was almost a miracle that by the accident the train was not thrown from the track. Had this been the case, it would have been thrown into the river, as the track at that place is very near the water.

THE TERRITORIES.

Indian ponies are plenty and cheap at Walla Walla.

Wheat is selling at Helena, Montana, for $2 60 per cental.

Flour has advanced in the Bozeman market to $2 50 per 100 lbs wholesale.

The Helena Herald has let the contract for a two-story, $6,000 fire-proof building, to be erected on Broadway immediately.

The First National Bank of Bozeman has had an increase of $18,000 in its circulation, which makes its total circulation $45,000.

There are in Utah 300 affiliated and 200 non-affiliated Odd Fellows. The Order is growing rapidly, and is fast extending its influence over the Territory.

A man who was pardoned out of the penitentiary in Washington Territory last week, spent the first night after his release, in jail, for drunkenness.

Latest reports from the Colville regions say the earthquake still continues to shake up the people there occasionally, but the people are getting used to it, and as the shocks are light but little attention is paid to them.

Lewis, Bull & Co., owners of the famous Legal-Tender Silver Mine in Montana, have negotiated in the East for concentrating machinery, which will be shipped and placed in operation at Clancy the present season.

Tiger Engine Co. No. 2, at Walla Walla, grew indignant because the Common Council declared its intention to abolish the office of Chief Engineer. They met and passed resolutions to adjourn, disband, dissolve, toll their bell, drape their engine in mourning, and quit forever.

The Montanian has advices that a good many distinguished people, including Gen. Babcock, the Commissioner of Patents, General Leggett, and other Government officials, a Russian Countess and party, and the Earl of Dunraven, will visit the Yellowstone National Park this summer.

The Helena Herald says that Mr. Vaughn has struck three feet of ore in the Little Jennie Mine, the average value of which, by actual assay, is twenty-eight hundred dollars per ton of 2,000 lbs. At this rate Mr. Vaughn is likely to abridge the period he had set down in his memorandum book at which to accept the title of millionaire.

A gentleman in this city, who has received letters from Colville, W. T., every week almost during the past winter, informs us that the reports of the loss of cattle in that section are greatly exaggerated if not made out of whole cloth. He informs us that feed is abundant in Colville valley for all the stock there, and that none have died from poverty. The valley is very productive, and there is no necessity for man or beast suffering for food.

THE COMING CONFLICT AND THE COMING ELECTION.

At no time in the history of the world have the agricultural peoples ruled the nations. Emperors and kings have been taken from the heads of conquering armies and placed upon thrones above the people, from which long descended dynasties have ruled, by "right divine," the masses who have tilled the earth. And in countries where lawyers and other professionals have furnished the thought-material for government, the people, by the grace of God, have been favored with a position in the structure as

MUDSILLS.

But "times ain't now as they used to was been." In America, a sound business education and a general scientific knowledge of agriculture, commerce, political relations and monetary economy is fast presenting the anomaly in the world's history of the agricultural people "rising to the hight of the occasion," overturning old political relations and assuming to govern themselves and the country, which their toil and labor alone make prosperous.

MORE THAN A MILLION

Of intelligent, sober, industrious, earnest tillers of the soil are at work, solving the problem:—how to relieve the great producing interests,—the wheat, corn, cotton, rice and sugar plantations from the crushing, withering combinations of capital and monopoly! How to get to the world's markets without being robbed upon the way.

The farmer finds no difference in the result, whether Leland Stanford and Ben Holladay stop him with their railroad, or Tiburcio Vasquez and Bargeman Schultz stop him with their pistols. In either case it is "stand and deliver your money." And so far he has had to obey.

But shall this thing continue? Is the railroad power invincible? In England it is greater than the Throne itself. The whole net work over the Island is consolidated into some eight companies. It can overturn Cabinets, return its friends to Parliament, and bury in obscurity the friends of the people. Its money subsidizes the press, and silences inimical orators; and nothing under Heaven, but a movement of the people, as in American, can throw off the oppression, when it becomes intolerable.

KAISER WILLIAM AND THE GRAND BISMARCK,

In Prussia, lay their strong will over their railroads and prove to the world that the institution is capable of serving the public without having political control, as contended for in America. Russia proves the same possibilities. The Grange power, in America, is coming into the CONFLICT.

In Indiana, at a meeting of the State Grange, it was decided that the farming interest could not obtain the reforms in taxation and transportation due to them except by open and decisive political action, and that too, independent of both the old political parties. And they have called a Convention to meet in June to take measures in their own behalf.

LOOK AT THE LAWLESS INSOLENCE

Of the railroads in Wisconsin. After ten years of struggle the people procured a law making it a penal offense for any ticket or freight agent or officer of a railroad to refuse to issue tickets; or to receive or detain freight at any station, as by the law prohibited. The railroad owners immediately took counsel "of New York lawyers," and decided to turn the law upon the producers, in this wise: wherever a ticket or freight agent was arrested for violating the law, they would close the office, and remove the station, and thus leave the people without transportation of any kind. Can there be a more enslaved and abject condition of American citizenship imagined anywhere?

BUT ARE NEW YORK LAWYERS

So very much smarter than other people? Cannot even that 'cute move be check-mated? Suppose the people of Wisconsin arise (as I now pray the people of Oregon to do) in overwhelming numbers; elect a Legislature of their own men and minds, call a session and declare the status of railways to be, that they are only public thoroughfares; constructed only for the public use and good; and, laying New York lawyers down for cross ties, build over their rascally carcasses

THIS FUNDAMENTAL LAW,

That all railroads shall have, and keep, stations and offices for tickets and freight, open along their tracks at suitable and proper places and distances; so as to meet the wants of the public, for travel and transportation. This little job to be regulated by commissioners of the people or by Courts of the county having jurisdiction over roads and highways. Oh, if the people but felt their rights and their might, these railroad tyrants could soon be made to tremble in their boots as did Leland Stanford in California when Governor Booth appealed to the people in his Platt's Hall speech with this significant apostrophe:

"Great Heavens!! You are two hundred thousand, they are but three!" Then

THAT GILDED TYRANT

Came down upon his knees, and gladly explained to the representatives of the people the workings of his road, which before that he would not deign to answer to any one, treating the inquiry of the public with scorn and contempt.

A PENAL LAW

Ought also to be passed, prohibiting all corporations and moneyed monopolies from interfering in any manner with the elective liberties of the people! Fixing the penalties, not only at personal punishment, but at disincorporation, or even forfeiture of the franchises and property to the State; if the crime cannot otherwise be stopped. Look at the corruption at a late session of the Oregon legislature. One man was paid three thousand dollars to get him into a party caucus, and afterwards four thousand more to get him to vote the measures of that caucus. Infringement of this law should be inquired into by Grand Juries in any county, and should be the subject of special charge to them by all the Judges of the State.

ALSO,

There should be passed a ready law to enable the State, where roads are fraudulently operated, to the injury of the public, or when from any cause they fail to answer the proper purposes of the public use and to subserve the public good, that they shall be liable to condemnation and appraisement at their then actual value, that they shall be taken by the State, and may be leased or sold, and the public good amply secured.

AND CONGRESS

Ought to pass similar laws to the above (not forgetting the broom that sweeps away the cobwebs of the New York bar) for the regulation and government of all inter-State railroads. Consolidation of parallel lines of roads should be prohibited; and, gradually, on all great thoroughfares tracks might be laid for individual transportation, as on the Erie Canal, paying toll to the owners at reasonable rates.

ARE THE FARMERS OF OREGON

Alone, of all the States, the slaves of party? Are they unable to break away from the thralldom of old party leaders, and to strike out for themselves and their own interests?

Have they any railroad laws, except those that take away their lands, and give them as a road bed, for what? A public road, or the private property of Ben Holladay? Their lands have been condemned and taken for an alleged public use, but as it now stands for a mere private enterprise, over which the public has no control, and of which "they have no rights that a white man is bound to respect."

HOW WAS THIS DONE?

A grant of public lands was procured from Congress, upon which some $10,950,000 worth of bonds were issued. These were sold, mostly in the German market, then flush with French indemnity money. About $7,000,000 are supposed to have been realized from this sale by Mr. Holladay. Probably he has expended $4,000,000 of it in getting the road to the Umpqua Valley, and in perfecting his ocean transportation, so that now he is prepared to carry the wheat crop of Oregon all the way from the southern part of the State to the northern line, then down the

COLUMBIA AND DOWN THE OCEAN

To San Francisco, a thousand miles, for which he would probably be satisfied to carry it, bushel for bushel, if let alone but if irritated, he would charge what he pleased, or not take it at all. And, though wielding all this irresponsible power over the people and producers of Oregon, Mr. Holladay has not spent a dollar of his own money, but has become a millionaire off the people's land and money. True, Mr. Holladay "ain't no very great shakes," compared with Mr. Stanford, Mr. Crocker, and Mark Hopkins, who financiered about $50,000,000 into their own pockets as a Finance and Construction Company to build their own road in California.

NOW, THIS OREGON RAILROAD

Has got all the money, and all the rights, and all as the gift of the people—generous souls! Have they knowingly given these things away, or have they been filched by fraudulent legislation, and in the name and doings of party? Has the road been fenced? Has it been made possible for the farmer, by giving jurisdiction to local tribunals, to obtain compensation for his cattle and horses slain by the cars on this unenclosed railroad? Has there been a maximum rate of freights or fares established so that the farmer may know what he can possibly get for his wheat, and be able to contract in regard to the same, so that the value of his lands may be established, or that he may know himself from a collared slave.

OREGON HAS THE FIRST SAY

At the ballot box, under the increased pressure of Indiana and Wisconsin upon the farmer element, after their grangers have yielded to the inevitable!

Is reform in taxation and transportation possible in Oregon, against the pitiful appeals of party whose leaders fatten and thrive upon so much public plunder? Is Oregon able to lead the van of States for freedom from monopoly and wrong? Shall her waving fields of wheat be green only to feed the iron horse, while the honest farmer and his wife, and his sons and daughters toil in tattered clothes and paintless houses from year to year, because by great public wrongs they are robbed of their just earnings, to fatten spoilsmen and merciless corporations?

THERE ARE 15,000 MEN

In Oregon that ought to vote in solid phalanx a thundering "No!" to the wrongs, and a thundering "Yes!" to the rights above enumerated. Cæsar had his "Ides of March" which he did not pass. Let the railroad ring and party conspirators against the rights of the people have their Ides of June, on which day they can "pass in their checks."

Truly yours, etc., G. W. LAWSON.

THE PRESIDENT'S SALARY AND PERQUISITES.

AN AMUSING DEBATE IN THE HOUSE—MR. DAWES MAKES A STATEMENT WHICH IS RIDICULED BY MR. BUTLER—A HUMOROUS SPEECH BY MR. COX.

WASHINGTON, April 16.—There was an amusing debate in the House to-day about the President's salary and perquisites. Mr. Dawes began it by producing a statement of the appropriations made last year for the Executive Mansion, to prove his former assertion that the President now receives in the way of pay and allowances at least $400,000 for his term of four years. At the same time he wanted it understood that these allowances were not all of a personal nature, but were mainly for the necessary expenses of the Executive office. According to Mr. Dawes' table, the White House cost last year $57,660. Mr. Butler took Mr. Dawes very sharply to task for conveying the impression in his former speech that the President's personal perquisites amounted to $50,000 yearly, besides his salary. He went over Mr. Dawes' list of White House expenses, and ridiculed the idea that policemen, ushers, doorkeepers, stewards, clerks, etc., were for the President's personal gratification and convenience.

The spectacle of Mr. Butler lecturing his own candidate for the Massachusetts Senatorship in this way, and of Mr. Dawes trying to take the edge off his former speech at Mr. Butler's dictation, apparently incited Mr. Cox to make one of his funny speeches. He read from a newspaper clipping an account of an interview with Mr. Butler, in which the General said that, "When that old brindled steer, Dawes, broke out of the pond on a dark, drizzly night, no corn field in the world was safe," and that somebody would have to put a bell on him. "Now, said Mr. Cox, "he has put a bell on himself." Everybody laughed heartily at this but Mr. Butler, who did not relish the joke at all. Mr. Dawes insisted that he had taken nothing back that he had said in his former speech. He had not drawn the line between official and personal expenses, but he did not mean to intimate that either were unreasonable. Mr. Butler quoted from Mr. Dawes' former speech to show that he had used the words "salary and perquisites." He then went on to read an account of the gorgeous costumes worn by Adams, Hancock, and other Revolutionary notables at a ball in Philadelphia, apparently written by some cotemporaneous "Jenkins," and ridiculed the talk about returning to the simplicity of our fathers. Mr. Cox said that the account was a mere fancy sketch, written by Grace Greenwood, whereat Mr. Butler got angry, and said that Mr. Cox's anecdote was a "mean and dirty thing."

The debate then drifted away to the more serious topic of the constitutionality of the law increasing the President's salary, and Messrs. Kasson, Woodworth and Sprague voted with a score of Democrats to reduce the appropriation to $25,000, on the ground that the salary had been raised in violation of the Constitution. Afterwards Mr. Willard went back to the old topic, and said that it was nonsense to talk about the expense the President was put to to keep up his establishment. The Secretary of State had to spend five dollars where the President spent one. The President was provided with a house, which was lighted, warmed and furnished, and provided with servants free of expense to him, so that he only had to supply his table and pay for the personal expenses of his family out of his salary. Mr. Willard did not say that the President got too much or too little, but he wanted his compensation fairly stated.

FATAL ACCIDENT AT A FERRY LANDING.—A New York dispatch of April 24th says Louisa McKay, eighteen years old, while leaving the ferry-boat of the Central Railroad with a party of friends, last night, fell into the water and was drowned. It appears that there was an insufficiency of light on the bridge, and the boat was not properly secured to the dock, there being an unguarded space of three or four feet of water between the boat and the bridge. Miss McKay and her friends were proceeding to a surprise party in Jersey City when the accident occurred on the Jersey side.

WASHINGTON, April 24.—The President has received a request from the President of the Argentine Republic asking the privilege of placing at the West Point Academy six young men, graduates of the military school established by that republic. The Argentine Government proposes to pay the expenses of the young men. As the President has no authority in the premises, the letter has been laid before the House Committee on Military Affairs for action.

BERLIN, April 15.—The trial of Archbishop Ledochowski, of Posen, for violation of the ecclesiastical laws, resulted in conviction, and he has been sentenced in contumaciam to dismissal from his see. No appeal from the judgment will be allowed.

The Supreme Court of Spain upholds Archbishop Lorente against the Pope and ex-Capt.-Gen. Jouvellar, and condemns Obera, the Acting Archbishop, to imprisonment and banishment from the Island.

NORTHERN IDAHO.

A CALL UPON THE CAPITALISTS OF PORTLAND.

PORTLAND, April 28, 1874.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE OREGONIAN:

Presuming that your readers will not be indifferent to a matter relating to any portion of the country which is tributary to the growth and prosperity of your city, I propose to say a few words in behalf of a section which may not be fully understood by the great body of the people who have hitherto been enriched thereby. It will be distinctly remembered by the residents of Oregon, and especially of Portland, during the winter of 1860-61, that all branches of industry throughout this State were stagnant by reason of the scarcity of money; that complaints were universal of hard times. Oregon had then just emerged from her Territorial condition, and assumed the responsibilities of a State, with an actual population of less than 50,000 persons. Every class of products of the State commanded a very low price at the home of the producer, and the means of transportation to a market were very imperfect, and for the most part, expensive. Men everywhere appeared to entertain a chronic opinion that the State must grow poorer unless some relief could soon be furnished. During said winter, efforts were made by a few to direct public attention to the fact of the existence of gold fields in the country east of the Cascades mountains, in the Blue mountains, and western spurs of the Bitter Root range, and the people were urged to go forth and prospect. In March, 1861, news reached this city from a small party who had spent the winter in the Oro Fino district, North Idaho, heralding their success in extracting about $800 of the precious metal from that locality. The publication of this information seemed to electrify the whole people, and before the middle of June more than 5,000 persons passed from west to east of the Cascades in search of gold. From that day Oregon, and especially Portland, may, with truth, date its growth and prosperity. The gold from this eastern section during the thirteen years following has furnished the vital energy to every branch of business of the State. The history of these years is too plain to be either mistaken or denied. The section of country prospected during the years 1861-2 and 3 was vast, and the number of rich mining camps discovered was large, and the hardy miners who rushed forward to develope them could be numbered by tens of thousands. During this period Portland continued to be the radiating center of trade for all these mines, and enjoyed a degree of commercial prosperity such as she had never before experienced. Subsequent to this by some parsimonious greediness, in the matter of freights, which in the opinion of many could have been either averted or controlled by the business men of Portland, the supply trade for the rich mining districts of South Idaho was almost entirely lost to the merchants of Portland, and up to the present time it has not been regained. But the mines of North Idaho and most of those of the Blue Mountain range, have steadfastly been tributary to the business of this city. Those of North Idaho alone have since their discovery in 1861, contributed to the gold circulation of the country about $25,000,000, and Portland has ever continued to be the radiating center of trade for all North Idaho. We, of that locality, naturally infer from these facts, that North Idaho and its people are entitled to some favorable consideration from the people of Oregon and especially from the business men of Portland, in consideration of the past.

It would be impossible for me, in a short newspaper article, to fully set forth the character and advantages to be derived by the people of this city, from a still further development of the resources of North Idaho. Suffice it to say, that its mineral resources are but in their infancy of development; that aside from its mineral wealth, its agricultural facilities, though circumscribed to narrow limits compared with its whole area of about 28,000 square miles, are not inferior to any on the Pacific slope. Its timber resources are vast, embracing varieties of timber of superior quality not to be met with to any great extent in any other locality west of the Rocky Mountains, with numerous streams of sufficient size to float said timber and the lumber manufactured therefrom, flowing from the spurs of the Bitter Root Mountains west far into the interior of the sparsely timbered country to be occupied by the husbandmen of Eastern Oregon and Washington, all which streams are tributary to the great Columbia, whose waters are in so close proximity to your city. These streams afford, in various localities, some of the finest water powers for purposes of manufacture, that can be found on this coast. To these may be added the healthfulness and mildness of the climate of the agricultural portion of our area, evincing that nature has made one section a suitable abode for civilized man, where agriculture, manufactures and all the arts and pursuits of civilized human life may thrive and grow vigorous.

Hitherto placer mining has been the chief pursuit of our people in North Idaho, and we have sent our gold down the Columbia river and obtained our supplies of almost every class from the lower country, at high prices and paying extremely high freights for shipment, all of which has contributed to your growing rich, while we have diligently and perseveringly delved in the mines to keep up the necessary supply of gold. If some who were with us have succeeded in husbanding a few thousand dollars about them, such have usually gone from us and taken their gold with them, to buy them a home in other localities. Even our merchants, who have reaped so rich harvest while trading among us, have been wary of expending a dollar towards further developing the country which has enriched them. But on the other hand, when their accumulations have swelled to $25,000, $30,000 and, in some cases, $100,000 by trade with us, they have closed their trade, pulled up stakes and deserted us, not even leaving a land mark or any monument to evidence that they were ever among us. Many of them have come to this city and invested their money here, some have gone to San Francisco, and some to cities and towns at the East.

The time has fully come when the necessities of that country demand a change of programme. Our supply of gold in the future cannot be so easily obtained, though the resource is still abundant. We will be compelled to extract it from the ores, instead of from the sand and gravel as formerly. To do this requires deep underground mining, and expensive machinery to reduce the ores. It requires more skill and science and a greater combination of capital to operate steadily and successfully. The gold and silver bearing ores exist in every placer-mining camp in North Idaho. In fact have been the parent of all the placer gold which has hitherto been extracted from these camps. If we want the gold that is in these ores, we must employ the means to obtain it. The men of California foresaw this and provided the means to open and develop her quartz as the yield of her placers gradually diminished, so that in 1873 about two-thirds of the whole product of gold and silver from this coast was obtained from the quartz direct. That product, as given by John J. Valentine of Wells, Fargo & Co., exceeded $72,000,000. San Francisco men inaugurated, and have kept in operation these quartz enterprises, and that city has been greatly enriched thereby. The quartz mines of the Bitter Root range prospect as well as those of California, and there is no practical business sense in reasoning that they cannot be made to yield as well; and there is no good reason to offer why some of the capital of Portland should not be employed intelligently in developing the mines of the mountains east of us, instead of being put into costly structures in this city, which are far in advance of the development of the surrounding country, and eating themselves up with interest and taxes. I do not claim that gold and silver products are essential to human existence and human happiness. But I do claim that by the fixed laws and customs of the whole civilized world the possession of these products enables the possessor to command all the elements which go to make up all but life itself. I further claim that in a new country, where nature has provided them, it is incumbent upon man to search them out, and make them available in developing the other resources of that country, which act more directly in supplying the wants of man. The correctness of this view is fully shown in the history of the progress of civilization upon this coast during the last quarter of a century. It is not improper, then, that the men of Portland be urged to bear a prominent part in the further development of the mines of North Idaho as a source of wealth to themselves. There is no more wealthy mining district on the coast, over which they can hold a more complete control for all future time than the mines of North Idaho, if they had put forth their efforts and capital to develop it, and none yet discovered that will yield them a more certain and steady profit upon their investment.

THE HIGGINS MILWAIN CREDIT MOBILIER

The Bulletin labors through a column and a half to explain away the steal which the affidavit of J H Starr heretofore published, shows the Custom House Ring to have committed in connection with the roofing of the dome of the Custom House The harder the ring endeavor to explain away this piece of official corruption and theft, the worse it appears for them This certainly is a case in which the gods have made mad those whom they would destroy A more clumsy self convicting defense was never put forth by any guilty conscienced felon, than that by which these scoundrels attempt to get out of the predicament in which this damning disclosure has placed them It will be remembered that Starr swears that he worked on the Custom House only 17 days altogether a part of these being in July and a part in August That he received for his work $3 50 per day from Mr Milwain, and that he was required to sign two vouchers or receipts to the Government for pay for this work, one being for $114, and the other for $153 40 And that the money he received was $59 50 He also swears that the $114 went to Milwain, and that he never saw the check for the $153 40.

Upon this statement it would appear that Milwain made the difference between $114 and $59 50, or $54 50, and that some person in the Custom House service, presumably Superintendent Higgins, fobbed the $153 40, the total stealings being $207 90 out of only $267 40. But the explanation given by the Bulletin traces all the profits to Milwain Whether he had a private "divide" with Higgins or such other member of the ring as Higgins may have designated, does not appear Every one can make his own conjectures on that point

The explanation offered is that Superintendent Higgins contracted with Milwain for the tin work and Milwain furnished the hands, Starr among them, at an agreed price of $5 per day, and that Starr worked the full time to earn all the moneys for which he swears he signed vouchers But lest we should be accused of making an unfair statement of the defense we present it in the Bulletin's language, giving the entire paragraph in which it is succinctly stated

Mr Higgins, the Superintendent wanting this work done on the dome of the building and also considerable other tin lead and copper work upon the roof, gutters flashing, etc went to Mr Milwain, proprietor of the well known house in this city, and desired him to send men to do it It was precisely what any builder would do, and precisely what is done by builders here and elsewhere, universally The price for job work in that line in this city, as every man knows who calls a tinman coppersmith or plumber to do a job on a building is six dollars a day in coin But in this case five dollars a day was agreed on and Mr Milwain sent the men to do the work Among them was this man John H Starr The time of the men was kept both by Mr Milwain and the Superintendent The work of preparing the copper and other materials was done in Milwain's shops, where the tools and benches were After the material was got ready, it was taken to the building and put on Starr worked part of the time in the shops getting the material ready and part of the time at the building putting the copper, etc, on He worked for Milwain sometime before he began work on the Custom House building and continued in Milwain's employ for some days after the job on the Custom House was closed He doesn't count in the time he worked in the shops on the material, but only the time he was at work at the building putting it on and even this he hasn't got right

Then Mr Alexander Milwain, brother of the party concerned and one of his employes, writes Higgins a letter in which he says that another man, named LeGrand, who is a clerk of Milwain's, knows all about it, and that whatever LeGrand says he, Alexander Milwain, knows to be true With which introduction the said LeGrand strides out before the curtain in a letter to Higgins, which deserves a place here

PORTLAND April 14 1874

W L Higgins, Esq City In reply to your verbal inquiry of to-day relative to the accounts of E Milwain for material furnished and labor performed for the Custom House now in course of erection under your supervision, I beg leave to state that, as Mr Milwain's book keeper, I made out the accounts in question The books of the firm show that during the months of July and August 1873 one J H Starr a tinsmith was employed by the firm in work for the Custom House and the charges for his services in those months appear as follows

In July 1873—19 days at $6	$114 00
In August, 1873—26 days at $5 90	153 40

The time charged in these two, as well as in all other instances, was the actual time consumed in work for the Custom House and embraces not only the labor performed on the building itself, but also the necessary work of preparing material for the building, which was done in the shop, such as making ventilators gutters etc., turning roof plate etc. The rates charged were the current coin rates charged other parties for similar labor, and given in currency at market quotations

Your attention is invited to the accompanying affidavit of J. W Miller, who was employed by the firm and engaged in the same work with Starr during the whole time mentioned In this connection I would also refer to the fact that the accounts for material furnished were made only as the prices for the raw material, and that the labor of making the same into ventilators gutters hot air pipes, etc, and of preparing roofing plate which was all done in the shops away from the Custom House building, had to be included in the accounts for time, which will probably explain the discrepancy between the time charged in the vouchers for Starr's services and the time stated by him as actually employed on the Custom House

And referring to the statement made by said Starr, I submit it to your judgment what amount of credibility is to be accorded to the statement of a working man made some six months after the occurrence of the facts certified to whose only source of information is his memory, and who has already twice been confined in an asylum for the insane Respectfully yours, JOS LEGRAND

And this document is followed by a certificate of a person named Miller, that Starr was engaged on Custom House work "a large part of the month of July and the whole of the month of August"

This is the defense A more unfortunate letter than that of LeGrand could not have been written And yet it is probable that a less unfortunate one would have been impossible, considering the fact that those two miserable vouchers and the checks drawn therefor were in existence But for this it would have been easy sailing All that would have been necessary would have been to admit the 17 days' work at $3 50 per day and the payment of $59 50 and deny the signing of the vouchers or the checks But this would not do now The $114 and $153 40 must be accounted for, and the lame story told in LeGrand's letter is concocted

Now a question or two If Milwain was to furnish hands at $5 per day, why does he fix up his accounts with six? And if it was to be six and not five contrary to the Bulletin's statement why does he charge $5 90 in the August account? Is not this 90 cents rather a suspicious looking item? Why 90 cents pray? Because that was the only way to balance accounts with that check with the odd dollars and the odd cents in it That is the long and short of it Six dollars because the five dollars of the alleged contract would not reach the $114 check that stared them in the face and five dollars and ninety cents—five dollars and ninety cents—because by that device alone could the other check be met Judge. A clear case of Credit Mobilier, on the scale of 78 cents stealings out of every dollar Make the computation and see if we are not right

Starr gave the names of the persons for whom he worked outside of the Custom House—private citizens—for a large proportion of the time for which the Government is charged in this account. He was in Milwain's employ doing work for private citizens, for which doubtless Milwain made his regular charges while at the same time he was charging the Government for the time of this tinner The defense is a bald fabrication, and its falsity is apparent on its very face

GROVER GOES TO THE WALL

A letter from Roseburg describing the contest between Grover and Campbell says Campbell is proving much more than a match for the Governor on the stump The contest cannot be held down to that book keeping controversy in which His Excellency had so many tilts with Dolph, and which involved no issue except the question whether Grover could keep State prisoners the cent a day cheaper than Woods The Governor is required to answer for all the numerous extravagances into which the country has been plunged, by which the people's substance has been wasted during his administration. The unconstitutional increase of the compensation of the State Treasurer from $800 to over $8 000 he has to explain. The wasteful expenditure of the appropriation for building the State Capitol, whereby $30 per day are expended for services that ought to cost no more than $5, he is called upon to justify. The expenditure of the State House appropriation in such a manner that when the entire $100,000 shall have been expended together with as much more in the shape of brick and other material produced by the convicts in the penitentiary, the State will still have no place for its Legislature, its Supreme Court, its Public Library, its Executive officers—for all this His Excellency is called upon to defend his past struggles" And then he has to meet a little road job between Yamhill and Tillamook on which $10,000 of the public lands fund were squandered for about $1,800 worth of work, and then the road built at public cost given away to a private individual to be used as a toll road for his own profit And then he must look in the face another and similar piece of stealing in which a prominent ring politician of Washington county—Colonel Cornelius, to wit—organized himself into a "syndicate" and syndicated away a $20 000 subsidy to the Nehalem road till there is not enough of it left over stealings and Commissioners per diem to complete the survey of the road, let alone the actual construction of it And when His Excellency has finished up these trifling matters, he is called upon forthwith to give his reasons for approving a law raising the fees of Clerks and Sheriffs from fifty to one hundred per cent when they were already enormously beyond what they should have been, while professing to be jealously guarding the People's treasury against the devices of politicians and the schemes of stock jobbing lobbyists

It is no 3-cent book-keeping task that His Excellency has on hand now He is arraigned before the country upon charges and specifications that include the expenditure of scores of thousands of the people's money unnecessarily, prodigally, wastefully, wantonly And the evidence upon which he is being tried is of no uncertain kind! It is of no lower order than the public records and public history of the State! So long as His Excellency had an antagonist who was more than willing to fight a sham duel with him carrying the engagement to a single point involving only 3 cents, he got along swimmingly People naturally said if this was all there was in controversy between the Democratic administration and the Republican ring, they had no great interest in the result of the conflict But when the people's champion presses home the many and really important delinquencies of the State Administration, in most of which the Ring Republicans were too deeply involved themselves to attack the Governor for his part in them the scene is entirely changed, and His Excellency labors and sweats and sweats in labors to get himself right but all to little purpose.

A PLAIN MATTER

The bribery organ grows hugely indignant at our disclosure of the plot between the leaders of the two elite parties to trade off the people in the coming election and elect part of each of the party tickets. It spits out its denial with a spitefulness that proves our charge to be well founded There is no doubt in the world about this plot All recollect how a few days ago it was stated through the organ of bribery that Tolman the bogus candidate for Governor was just about to take the stump There was not a word of truth in the statement Grover and Campbell are now returning from the southern part of the State making the campaign and Tolman is not with them Nobody will ever have an opportunity of seeing Tolman in this canvass He is not a candidate A part of the put up job is for him to stay at home pocket the $2 000 which the ring agreed to pay him for getting beaten while the emissaries of the ring travel up and down the State on free railway passes and work in the interest of Grover If Tolman ever was intended in good faith as a candidate, he is not so intended any longer by the ring who hired him to stand as their nominee He and LaDow are to be used simply as decoys, while a majority of the straightout Democrats are to be hoodwinked and swapped into voting for Dick Williams and the Republicans are to be given to Grover as a consideration for their Democratic votes "A Plain Matter" the Bulletin heads another article which proves the denial of this plot too plainly a falsehood. It is a very plain matter that the [illegible] of the party rings in their struggle to maintain the ascendency over the people is to discard all their professed principles throw off the cloak of hypocrisy [illegible] their lying pretensions of devotion to their respective parties and unite to prevent the people from having any voice in public affairs Read this from the Bulletin's article headed "A plain matter" and say if it is not in itself a plain matter and a shameless fraud

In Douglas county Republicans and Democrats who believe that it is a duty to oppose malcontent schemes and piracy in politics have united on a ticket for members of the legislature and county officers Neither party gives up its principles or its organization The Republicans and Democrats support their respective State tickets and have united on a county ticket for a simple an intelligible and an avowed purpose Nothing is concealed all is done openly For several years the number of disappointed politicians hanging on the skirts of both parties in Douglas county has been increasing This year they have united in a common cause By artful and unprincipled leaders some good men have been carried into the movement and the managers have been claiming that they would carry the county To prevent such a result the Republicans and Democrats have united on a common ticket nominated in the interest of honesty and of political organization

The Senate Judiciary Committee have reported a substitute for the Sumner Civil Rights bill which retains the principal features and changes only the form of the original It gives to all persons the privileges of inns public conveyances theaters and other places of amusement, common schools and public institutions of learning or benevolence supported in whole or in part by general taxation, and of cemeteries so supported The penalty for denial of any of these privileges is the payment of $500 to the person aggrieved and a fine of not less than $500 nor more than $1,000 or imprisonment for thirty days to one year No citizen shall be disqualified from service as a grand or petit juror in any State or United States court on account of race color or previous condition of servitude and any person excluding or failing to summon a citizen for such cause shall be fined not more than $5 000

An effort is being made to secure the pardon of Clarke captain of the ship Sunrise who was convicted last winter in a California court of the most atrocious outrages on the sailors under him that have ever been made public in the United States It is probable that the attempt will be unsuccessful The Attorney General having written to District Attorney VanDyke for an opinion on the case the latter officer replies to the effect that the inhuman Clarke had a fair trial that the court if it so chose might have made the term of imprisonment one day and imposed a nominal fine only, but that it did not so order The District Attorney believes that the sentence was just, and he cannot recommend the interposition of Executive clemency We believe that any one who is familiar with the evidence in the case of this brutal sea captain will applaud the firmness of VanDyke

One of the most significant utterances of the times is to be found in a letter on inflation from that venerable patriot ex President Woolsey of Yale College which was read at the recent anti inflation meeting at the house of Cyrus W Field in New York city Hear his bold words

I feel no attachment to party and no obligation to support any organization so corrupt as the Republicanism to which I have always belonged since it began to exist It is remarkable how many feel just so Every other educated Republican will tell you just the same thing

Now let the Bulletin or some other one of the few party organs remaining in Oregon read this eminent scholar lawyer and divine out of the party

By a typographical error we were made to say yesterday that the Indiana Independent State Convention had been called to meet in the first week in June The Indiana State Grange in session at Indianapolis, April 9th, called the Convention to meet at Indianapolis June 10th The call asks the people to assemble to devise a way to bring about such reforms as will emancipate the State from the burdens heaped upon it by the misrule of a corrupt party of politicians Several of the leading papers of Indianapolis express their fears that this means a permanent dissolution of the old parties The movement is supported by some of the old [illegible] influential party papers in the State

A remarkable Indian is Spotted Tail—remarkable as a keen observer of men and events Some of the Peace Commissioners went two weeks since to Red Cloud Agency to hold one of the periodical pow wows which usually precede a [illegible] Spotted Tail listened to them for a few minutes and then told them in good English that [illegible] He said he had been moved around and pestered [illegible] much by these files from the Great Father that he wanted his words written down this time to show to all of them who come bugging around here after that he would not talk to them any more The council broke up soon after this outburst

The Senate Committee on Privileges and Elections has [illegible] to report an amendment to the Constitution of the United States which shall do away with the present method of electing the President and Vice President The new plan divides the States into election districts and abolishing the electoral college [illegible] that the majority or plurality for the candidate in each district shall be certified to [illegible] where the [illegible] of each district [illegible] counted as one

THURSDAY MORNING APRIL 30 1874

CITY.

THEATRICALS COMING.—Mr C W Knowles informs us that he is in receipt of a letter from Madame Fanny Morgan Phelps to the effect that that lady accompanied by her troupe will leave Victoria one week from to-day en route for Portland. Arriving here a short theatrical season will be inaugurated at once. The measure of patronage and encouragement which this public shall choose to accord Madame Phelps and her troupe will determine the length of her professional visit to Portland. It would certainly seem that inasmuch as this city has had no regular dramatic entertainments for almost a year—except of course the excellent amateur performances given this spring—our theater goers ought to extend a liberal patronage provided they deem that a legitimate company be maintained in Portland. How well this public will respond, remains to be seen. In addition we learn that Madame Duret a lady of well established histrionic reputation who played in Portland years ago and a good company will leave San Francisco in about two weeks. She proposes to proceed directly overland to this city playing along the route. That being the case we shall have two theatrical companies to contribute to public amusement within one short month.

A FORTUNATE CIRCUMSTANCE.—At the time the piston rod of the Ajax snapped asunder last week, below Kalama a very serious catastrophe was fortunately averted by the vigilance and presence of mind exercised by the engineer. Providentially for it seems that it was an interposition of Providence the engineer was watching the engine and had his hand on the throttle valve at the moment. Quick as a flash, the ponderous piston broke short off at a flaw made at the time the rod was forged. The engineer, with the rapidity of thought turned the valve and shut off the steam. Had the engineer not been at his post of duty the extent of damage would have been difficult to estimate. At the time the steamer was traveling under a full head of steam. An instant later and the cylinder would have been blown to pieces and the steam forced out through the connection pipes tearing and scalding everything with which it came in contact. Before the throttle valve could have been reached the steam would no doubt have expelled the engineer and his assistants from the lower portion of the ship and gone on in its destructive course, until the boiler had emptied itself. Fortunately as it resulted no damage occurred save the mere breakage of the piston.

BEING ENCLOSED.—Under the contractor Mr [illegible] the work of rebuilding the old Fannie Troup which ran afoul of a sunken snag near the mouth of the Cowlitz, several months ago and was badly used up is progressing rapidly. Already the frame of the hull is built enclosed and soon the ringing of the caulker's hammer will be heard. The contract for the wood work calls for its completion by the 10th of May. Weeks ago the engine and portions of the machinery were sent up to the workshop at the Dalles to be overhauled and modified. In a short time they will be sent down and be placed in the hull. The working capacity of the engine we understand, is to be materially augmented and the boiler will also be enlarged to meet the increased demand for power. By the latter part of May the Fannie Troup will be ready to resume the line which the accident [illegible] compelled her to abandon.

BADLY HURT.—Early yesterday morning a hod-carrier named Dennis Cochran employed on the [illegible] at First and Stark streets met with a narrow escape. He was carrying a piece of timber around the outer edge of the brick-work when a large lump of earth became detached from the top of the excavation and descended striking the plank which Cochran held in his hand. He was prostrated by the violence of the blow, and those who saw him fall supposed that he was killed. In an unconscious condition Cochran was removed to a room near by. Dr Kinney was summoned and on taking an inventory of the injuries pronounced them slight. The bones of the right leg, that were supposed to be broken, were found intact. Soon after being removed to the room Cochran regained consciousness. He will be able to resume labor in a few days.

LAST JEWISH CEREMONIES.—The mortal remains of the young and talented lawyer [illegible] Clements who departed life in this city last week, have been in the keeping of the [illegible] of which Order deceased was an [illegible] and beloved member. The steamer Stephens brought up a metallic casket consigned to S G Elliott—who was the client [illegible] settlements in the suits against Ben Holladay—which is intended to incase the lifeless [illegible] him who but a few days ago was in the prime of life, and exulting in the full strength of intellect. The body of the late J Clements will be placed in the casket and forwarded by steamer this afternoon to San Francisco where it will be received by the bereaved and heart-stricken widow, for final interment.

OREGON PRODUCTIONS ABROAD.—Messrs A [illegible] & Co., of this city are at present engaged in collecting a variety of Oregon productions both agricultural and mineral, which they propose to forward in a few weeks to Germany. They have already collected about 20 specimens, and are adding to their stock every day. Their intention is to forward these specimens in time for them to arrive at Bremen for exhibition at the International Agricultural Exhibition, which will be held there from June 20th to the 21st. This firm are doing much to bring the productions of our State to the favorable notice of the Europeans, for which they deserve much credit. Such efforts it is to be hoped, will not be devoid of good results.

INSIDE CAVE.—When will the walls of the [illegible] cistern cease to cave? is one of the perplexing conundrums which is annoying the public mind. It was thought that the earth would not cave any more when the masons quit work on Tuesday evening as the shelving was securely braced. Judge of their surprise and chagrin when, on resuming labor yesterday morning, to discover a large mass of earth detached and lying at the bottom which [illegible] considerable labor, was removed. The concussion of the atmosphere caused by the firing of salutes on Tuesday evening appears to be the most plausible reason for the disturbance of the earth.

LARGE CASTING.—One of the largest pieces of casting which has yet been successfully run by any foundry in the State will be achieved in a few days at the Willamet Iron Works. This piece of casting will consist of a solid lintel [illegible] in width, and weigh in the vicinity of [illegible] pounds. It is for Dekum's new brick building on Front street. The length is thus [illegible] the length of the building and will span the doorways—of which there will be [illegible]—and be supported at intervals by round cast iron pillars. Carpenters are now engaged in making the pattern for this colossal piece of casting.

GROUNDS SELECTED.—The Committee on grounds, appointed several weeks ago by the [illegible], have selected a spot on which will be held the picnic to be given on May 12th, [illegible] Day. This is near the mouth of the [illegible], on the farm of Jonathan Mour[illegible] a well shaded plat of ground and [illegible] to give satisfaction to the picnickers [illegible] occasion. A fine dancing platform capable of accommodating a large number of persons, will be prepared and no pains [illegible] omitted to make it one of the most pleasant and profitable picnics of the season.

RESIGNED.—Mr Chas A C[illegible] who [illegible] the popular host and attendant at the [illegible] Club Rooms since the formal opening of the same, tendered his resignation some time since, which will go into effect to day. He will take his departure from Portland tomorrow for some point along the Sound, which will most probably be his future place of residence. He is a genial gentleman and has many friends here whose best wishes will accompany him wherever he may choose to cast his lot.

CHOPPING ACCIDENTS.—Yesterday morning while Mr R A. Habersham was splitting some kindling wood, a small stick flew up and struck him in the right eye inflicting a very painful wound, from which he will suffer for many days. Frank Brown, while chopping wood at his residence on Tuesday evening was injured by his ax catching in a clothes line which caused it to rebound the edge striking him in the forehead just above the [illegible] an ugly gash.

THE WARM SPRING BRAVES.—By the steamer John L Stephens which will sail this evening for San Francisco Dr McKay his brother Donald Col Joseph Meek, Samuel B Parrish and the celebrated Warm Spring Scouts will take their departure. As before announced the company will remain a few days in San Francisco and give the people of that city an opportunity to laugh over the War Scalp Feast Medicine and other grotesque dances. After a brief sojourn in the Golden City Dr McKay will proceed East with his dusky attendants. Washington City will be the objective point and after appearing there the company will visit all the cities of the East and coming Pacificward will also appear at all the principal cities of the West. At present it cannot be definitely stated how long the company will be absent—that of course depending principally upon the measure of success attending the enterprise. Immense success attended the appearance of the Scouts both at Salem and Albany. The people were delighted at the novel style of entertainment offered and were very solicitous to have the braves remain longer and appear again. There is no doubt but what the Eastern and Western people will patronize these Scouts as they and their daring leader—the brave Donald—justly deserve. Success attend them.

IN LIMBO.—Jack St Clair and Ed Kennedy two well known rounders, scoundrels and thieves were taken into limbo yesterday charged with stealing boots and other gallant and meritorious actions and lodged in the city jail. This time it is to be sincerely hoped that these graceless knaves may have a brick making contract for the State. Two more worthless thieves never afflicted any community than these self same fellows.

STEAMER ARRIVED.—The steamer John L Stephens which arrived on Tuesday evening from San Francisco brought a large number of passengers and 600 tons of assorted cargo. She made a good voyage from port to port and experienced tolerably fair weather. Heavy clouds of fog were reported off the coast opposite the mouth of the Columbia and as the steamer crossed the bar no vessels were reported off.

INSTITUTED.—Special Deputy Grand Sire A Noltner, instituted the Grand Lodge of British Columbia I O O F at Victoria last Saturday with the following officers: J S Drummond G M; H V Edmonds D G M; John Weiler G W; J D Robinson Grand Secretary; I B Marvin Grand Treasurer. Mr Noltner returned on Wednesday.

FOR CALIFORNIA.—The steamer Ajax which sailed hence for San Francisco at 2 o clock on Wednesday morning carried away the following passengers: Captain Rivers, Henry Gilman, Mrs F Wilhelm, John McDonald, Mrs Nye and infant, P Wilhelm, Dr F Reynolds U S A, Chas Myers and fifteen in the steerage.

WEATHER REPORT.—From the records of the U S Signal Station of Observation Portland Oregon April 29, 1874

TO ATTEND.—The General Relief Committee, I O O F will meet at 1 30 P M to day for the purpose of attending the remains of the late Jabish Clements to the steamer. All members of the Order are invited to be present at that hour.

COUNTY COURT.—Next Monday the May term of the County Court will convene Judge Hamilton presiding. From present appearances there will be a limited amount of business to transact.

LOCAL BREVITIES.

Steamer will sail this afternoon for San Francisco.

Miss Kate Pell is playing at the California Theater.

The Upper Columbia is rapidly rising. Good boating stage in a few days.

"Magnificent for the crops isn't it?" is what the farmers say concerning the present Webfoot dews.

A band of genuine Merino bucks was brought up on the steamer. They were destined to some point South.

The fine blooded stallions brought up on the steamer, attracted considerable attention yesterday at Miller & Acker's stable.

Hunsaker's new hotel on the levee opposite the St Charles Hotel is nearly completed. It will be formally opened in a few weeks.

A man named Winters was arrested yesterday afternoon on a charge of attempting to purloin a coat. The case will be tried this morning.

A new piston for the steamer Ajax was forged a few days since at the Willamette Iron Works. It was eight feet long and four inches in diameter.

Richardson the popular auctioneer will sell a lot of household furniture this morning at 10 o clock on Third street, between Clay and Market. Read his "card" elsewhere.

One hundred and fifty tons of assorted merchandise were taken up the Columbia by the Oneonta yesterday morning. This is one of the largest freights of the present season in that direction.

On Tuesday about thirty five tons of castings for the new State Capitol at Salem were forwarded to that place. The Willamet Iron Works are now turning out large quantities of castings for that building.

Two boys of the genus hoodlum got into a difficulty on the wharves a few nights since and one received a slight cut with a knife in the fleshy portion of the leg. What shall we do with the hoodlum element? is a question over which thinking men ought to seriously moralize.

A young German capsized a skiff while crossing the raging Willamet yesterday morning. He couldn't swim but had a stout pair of lungs which he brought into requisition. His shouts brought speedy assistance and thus the coroner undertaker and six intelligent jurors were cheated out of a job.

BUSINESS NOTICES

Special attention is called to the numerous new advertisements.

The Portland Ice Manufacturing Co are selling ice at one cent per lb. Cheap enough and they advertise it.

Oscar Kilborn the auctioneer will sell at auction on Saturday the stock of groceries at the store of [illegible] Hill First and Yamhill streets. Mr Kilborn has opened his regular salesrooms in the brick building corner of First and Pine streets where he will be pleased to receive orders.

A card which appears elsewhere will inform the public [illegible]. The firm of Thompson & Weld has dissolved and copartnership relations formed between Drs J H Hatch and Wm [illegible] Thompson. Both these gentlemen stand in the head rank of the profession [illegible].

The public mind is occupied over the late defalcation about the P D A S L R L and where to procure that needed article—Clothing. There should be no worry [illegible] this matter while it is known that BECK & WALDMAN are offering a large stock of Spring Styles which they propose to sell at once to make room for new goods. They can accommodate all. Boys Clothing a specialty.

PERSONAL

We were favored yesterday with a call from Hon Levi Leland. He has been crusading through the rural districts for a few weeks past.

Mr G E Crone leaves on the steamer for Nashville Tenn. He goes there to locate with his parents whom he has not seen for nine years. Bon voyage.

Mr D L Stone the Jeweler returned Tuesday evening overland after spending some time in San Francisco. He brings a large stock and is too busy now to explain to the public. In a few days due announcement will be made.

The storekeeper who can lay in large and varied stocks of Goods should be able to afford his patrons excellent opportunities to purchase just what they want at the lowest figures. This is just what JOS KOHN opposite National Bank invariably does. His latest importations are so varied and the prices marked down so low that all can be accommodated. Be sure and look through his stock.

SPRING STYLES.—A thorough inspection of the latest spring styles in Clothing and Furnishing Goods by Mr J D Schaer of J O NEILL & CO while in San Francisco has resulted in the selection of everything new and that firm have just completed opening the new stock. Their customers and the public generally are invited to call and examine the new arrivals. Mr Schaer selects expressly to suit Portland trade and the new goods will be sure to please the most fastidious. Call.

THE FRENCH SURGEONS ASSERT that Consumption is no incurable. But they don't cure it. The only remedy that seems to effect this object is Hale's Honey of Horehound and Tar.

Pike's Toothache Drops cure in 1 minute.

Oppression after eating headache nervous debility are the effects of indigestion. One or two at most of Parsons' Purgative Pills will give immediate relief.

Johnson's Anodyne Liniment may be administered to children with perfect success in cases of croup whooping cough influenza and almost any of the diseases to which they are liable.

Do not Persecute the Body

In sickness with medicines that depress the physical energies. What the sick principally need is an accession of vital strength to enable them to cope with the enemy that has assailed them. The diseased system should be sustained toned purified and regulated and there is no medical preparation in existence so largely endowed with the properties required to effect these objects as Hostetter's Stomach Bitters. In ordinary practice aperient, blood-depurating anti bilious and sedative medicines are administered separately. In Hostetter's Bitters all these agents are combined and act together in perfect harmony so that undue debility and undue excitement are alike prevented, and the strength of the patient rallies while the disease is losing ground. In dyspepsia, liver complaint, chronic constipation intermittent fevers general weakness and all ailments involving physical and mental depression this pure vegetable restorative is a sovereign remedy.

IT IS A FACT
That they sell all DOMESTIC GOODS at cost of importation.

IT IS A FACT
That Cash buyers can save 25 per cent by purchasing at their Store.

IT IS A FACT
That BRADLEY, MARSH & CO. are not impelled by the madding crowds' ignoble strife to gain wealth for Wealth's sake, regardless of the means employed to compass that end. With contemplation's sober eye they can foresee, with regret, the baneful effects of this all-absorbing passion evinced even in our rulers, as shown by the recent attempt at inflation, and which but for the wise and manly course of our worthy President, would have inflicted disastrous consequences on the country. Their desire is to build up a business, the growth and magnitude of which shall be alike honorable to themselves and creditable to the intelligence of the enlightened community that patronizes them, and to whose best interests they are devoted.

SUMNER

AN ENGLISH VIEW OF HIS CHARACTER

[From the London Telegraph]

Rarely has a public man died in any country whose career and character will give rise to such conflicting and antagonistic discussions as those suggested by the very name of Charles Sumner For nearly a quarter of a century the statesman who died the day before yesterday at Washington has been, in the eyes of Englishmen the most conspicuous figure in the Senate of the United States Succeeding in 1850, after a severe and protracted contest, to the seat in that eminent body which had been held by Daniel Webster Mr Sumner has so contrived for the last five and twenty years to keep himself prominently before the world that some who never saw him will imagine when they read of his death that the gap thus created can not easily be filled while a few will pronounce his loss to be irreparable With those who believe that Mr Sumner's place at Washington will not soon be refilled, we hasten in limine to express our entire concurrence but our grounds for this belief are social rather than political By a strange fatality Mr Sumner, during the concluding years of his life occupied precisely the same social position at Washington as previous to the great civil war, it was the pride of two or three eminent Southern Senators to fill Not less hospitable than the most free handed and generous of the representatives that Virginia or Kentucky ever sent to the Senate, Mr Sumner lived to become the most accomplished and successful Amphitryon in the political capital of the United States He was never more happy than when engaged in entertaining half a dozen friends at dinner and, being a man of wide and far reaching sympathies, he had friends in every class of society, and selected from every nation upon earth. His little dinners were excellent, and himself the most cheerful and sparkling of hosts Not without a tinge of that weakness which led the contemporaries of Whewell to call "Science his forte, Omniscience his foible," Mr Sumner loved to surround himself with Frenchmen who sympathized with, even if they had not fought for, the Commune, and to converse with them in their own tongue His pronunciation of French was execrable and being himself conscious of this, he would often point, laughingly, to a passage in which a French lady, after a conversation with the late Duke of Wellington described his interpretation of her native language as being a "singulier baragouin" But, not satisfied with tripping over French accents and phrases alone, Mr. Sumner would patter German, of which he knew still less, with professors from Bonn and Stuttgard, and it is even recorded that he strove to impress Kossuth with a belief that he was not ignorant of Magyar Of Italy and Rome he would rave by the hour, although his acquaintance with them went little beyond the photographs that graced the walls of his pretty rooms at Washington, and was latterly derived, in the main, from letters written by his friend and countryman, Mr Story, or from the verbal descriptions of his numerous friends who had just returned from the valleys of the Arno and the Tiber

But it was for Englishmen that the warmest welcome to his table was always reserved, and among those of our countrymen who have visited Washington since Mr Sumner took possession of his new house, few who called upon him ever failed to have an opportunity of profiting by his generous hospitality. While many of his public speeches abounded in the wildest and most unmeasured denunciations of this country, he might have said, like that Parisian Anglophobist, the Marquis de Boissy, "Although I eat Englishmen in the Senate and on the platform, I love to nourish and entertain them in my own house" Mr Sumner's chief acquaintance with England was gained when he was himself a young man, when he went the northern circuit with Baron Martin, the late Sergeant Wilkins, and Mr Stuart Wortley, and when he frequently met Lords Brougham, Lyndhurst, Campbell and Aberdeen at dinner His English stories—and few men had more, or told them with greater gusto—were not without an old world ring, and he would have been out of date at a modern London dinner table, from which the very magnitude and bustle of the metropolis have banished such reciprocity of sustained conversation as is still in favor at Washington and New York In the United States Mr Sumner, "after the straightest sect of that religion," was emphatically a Republican; in Europe he was by preference an Aristocrat His English friends were chiefly chosen from the House of Lords, his sunniest hours, told of visits paid to the late Duchess of Sutherland, at Cheveden, his most cherished correspondence was that which he maintained during many years with the Duchess of Argyle A scholar—his enemies would say a pedant—rather than a statesman, he knew little of human nature, and was singularly ignorant of that moiety of his own country in which, for the last twenty years, he was the object of hatred, not unmingled with contempt, He had made it his business to reside many times in England, to travel over France, and to pay hurried visits to Italy and Spain; but he never approached South Carolina or Louisiana, and could have found his way better in Madrid than in New Orleans. If it be urged on his behalf that he could not have visited South Carolina without exposing himself to the risk of such an outrage as he sustained at Washington in 1856, at the hands of Colonel Brooks, it is safe to assert that, previously to the war, Northern statesmen of every stripe of opinion traversed every Southern State, and were the honored guests of Southerners with whom they had not a spark of political sentiment in common Daniel Webster was a greater favorite in Charleston than in Boston, although his most famous speech was delivered to elevate Massachusetts at the expense of South Carolina Edward Everett paid regular visits to his many Southern friends, and left pleasant memories behind him, which outlived even the rancor and heat of an envenomed civil war Prior to the immoderate speeches delivered by Mr Sumner in the Senate upon "bleeding Kansas," it would have been easy for him to ascertain, with his own eyes, the actual condition of the slave States, against which his scathing, and sometimes baseless insinuations were continually launched But it was Mr Sumner's misfortune that he never appreciated the full sting of the strong language which he habitually employed When, in 1866, England rose like one man to protest against the unmeasured terms of obloquy leveled by him at this country, he was himself astounded at the effect that his diatribes produced upon us, and, in his private letters to English correspondents, strove eagerly to explain away their bitterness

To the south of Mason and Dixon's line there are many still living who believe that the civil war need never have taken place if Mr Charles Sumner and Mrs Beecher Stowe had never spoken nor written But impartial justice demands from us the avowal that Senator Toombs of Georgia and others are not less responsible for the blood spilt between 1861 and 1865 than the anti-slavery enthusiasts of whom Charles Sumner was the mouthpiece in the Senate The conditions of political warfare in a country so vast in its dimensions as the United States are widely different from those of which European—and especially English—statesmen and journals are able to form a conception. Calm sensible men upon both sides of the Atlantic have long come to the conclusion that the United States could never have got rid of the deep-seated wen of slavery had they not cut it out with the sword We are not among those who believe that Mr Sumner ever foresaw, or like some of his abolitionist congeners, welcomed the war when it came At the outset he warmly approved the letter in which Gen Scott said to the rebel States "Erring sisters depart in peace" For many months after the election of Abraham Lincoln he would run his finger along the Big Sandy River in Western Virginia and indicate that in his judgment the line of demarcation between the two new sections of the divided republic ought to follow the banks of that little known stream Like the late Emperor of the French Mr Sumner had no aptitude for war, and during the agony of the fratricidal contest his name was seldom upon the lips of stranger and stranger in a It had been better for his fame if like his friend, Senator Baker of Oregon, who foremost fighting fell he had carried a musket in one or two of the great battles fought in the neighborhood of Washington But we prefer to think of him at this moment as the hospitable entertainer who had a welcome always ready for every stranger of distinction that visited the capital, as a public man who was singularly free from mercenary self seeking, and as a scholar who passed his laborious life among books, of which he was so fond that he shortened his days by neglecting exercise in preference to leaving them

Wheat in Liverpool via mail advices from San Francisco 12s 9d@13s for average California, and 13s@13s 4d for club

Our Eastern exchanges received by the steamer present comprehensive reviews of the business situation and outlook and accepting facts as they are the most of them see nothing in these facts not indicative of steady if slow recovery from the inherited influence of the great September panic from which the East is not yet entirely exempt Still there is such a reasonable degree of activity healthful in its nature as leaves but comparatively little ground for discouragement. The New York Merchant and Banker of April 8th, says the prospect is encouraging, at least and there is still a reason to believe that Mr Richardson will retire from the position of Secretary of the Treasury his incapacity having cost the country a great deal, and it at last having become apparent to almost every one that he has not the calibre necessary for the place which he holds by the courtesy of the President The past six months have afforded opportunities for a Secretary of the Treasury if an able man to make a great reputation Mr Richardson has ignominiously failed in the performance of duties not above a commonly intelligent business man and has only made himself famous for his incompetency

On the 8th of April the money market of New York was strong and active in anticipation that the Bank of England would advance its minimum discount rate it having lost over £400 000 bullion during the week. But at the weekly meeting of the Governors of the Bank no change was made and gold receded Until the weekly meeting alluded to rumors were kept in circulation to the effect that the London market was in a condition bordering on a panic, but these proved to be merely the creations of stock jobbers who were operating in Erie stock

In our local finances there is no important feature of change the supply of available capital for all the ordinary purposes of trade being ample, which in itself exhibits no especial activity We learn of some considerable additions to our local capital likely to be made at an early day and which, if reports are true will have a tendency to reduce rates at which money has been held in this market for some time past

Grain and Flour.

Our latest advices from the Liverpool market are of the 2oth of April at which time the price of wheat had declined 1d, which is still 1d higher than at a corresponding date last year The question that most concerns shippers and producers is what the price will be four months hence If the English market take the same course it did last year the quotations will be one penny higher in September than they are now but that such will be the case we have no assurance There is in all probability a less supply in the grain centers than there was a year ago, while the condition of the European crops is reported much better The first mentioned fact will tend to advance rates and the last to depress them

The importations of Barley from Europe for the month ending March 11 were 4o6 921 bushels and 8 882 bushels of Malt The opinion seems to be gaining ground that the supply on hand will be found this month to be larger than in April, 1873

The foreign exports of Flour and Grain from New York for the week ended March 21 1874 aggregated 39 892 bbls Flour 301 159 bushels Wheat 484 o8 bushels corn The exports of the same articles the corresponding week 1873 were 18 870 bbls Flour 93 305 bushels Corn, no Wheat

There was in store March 1o at Dubuque, Iowa 100,000 bushels Oats and 50 000 bushels Spring Wheat, at Galena, Ill , 200 000 bushels Oats and 75 000 bushels Spring Wheat at Bellevue Iowa 75 000 bushels Spring Wheat

Tulare county Cal , is cultivating between 50 000 and 60,000 acres of land in Wheat this year against 33,000 acres last year The yield this year is estimated at 900 000 sacks equal to about 1 800 000 bushels

The Wheat in transit for the United Kingdom March 7 1874 exclusive of steamer shipments from America and sail and steamer shipments from the Baltic Sea aggregated 10 196 504 bushels against 10 878,670 bushels the previous week

The imports of Wheat into the United Kingdom for the week ended March 7 were 910 538 cwts

The arrivals off the coast of England for the week ended March 13 were 18 cargoes Wheat 6 Maize, 3 Barley 3 Beans 1 Oats 1 mixed Sales of foreign grain were reported at 21 cargoes Wheat 21 Maize 2 Rye 6 Barley 1 Beans and 1 Oats Sales were reported of 40 681 qrs English Wheat at 61s 6d against 46 348 qrs at 55s 8d the corresponding week 1873

A considerable number of the interior English markets report an advance of 1s per qr on Wheat for the week ended March 16 Among the number were the cities of Manchester, Hull Newcastle, Leeds and Birmingham At Edinburgh Wheat advanced 1s per qr and at Dublin 6d to 1s per qr

The weather in most portions of Europe the second week in March was noticeable for frost and in England there were snow storms more violent than are ordinarily seen in January In Southern Europe the nights were frosty with warm sunny days and although it was impossible to determine the exact extent of the damage at date of last mail advices fears were entertained that injury had been caused to the growing grain Previous to the visit of winter the fruit buds were very forward and it was thought that they could hardly have escaped injury While it was not certain that any considerable damage had been done to grain the outlook was not nearly so favorable as at the close of the first week in March The result was an arrest of the previous tendency to lower prices and a consequent hardening somewhat in values The Mark Lane Express March 16th expressed the opinion that there would be no serious or settled decline in prices before harvest

In our own State the surplus wheat is not probably over 12,000 or 15 000 tons and fully one half of this will probably be moved before the incoming of the next crop Our exports of wheat since the beginning of the present harvest year have been about as follows

	Bushels
Wheat to Europe	1 5 0 7
Wheat to San Francisco	11 650
Flour to Europe equal to	50 80
Flour to San Francisco equal to	308 035
Estimated to other ports	69 800
Total exports	3 0 2 385

To which if we add the estimated quantity yet in our State 1 000 tons—112 500 bushels—we shall have as the surplus yield of last year the very considerable quantity of 3 184 888 bushels

The quantity of wheat shipped to San Francisco from this port since September 1st is reported in our contemporaries at 522 764 centals which figures are about 00 000 centals in excess of our actual shipments to that port
